

All but one...

One little seed hadn't grown at all.

"I wonder what's wrong?,"

said Ladybird.

"Let's just sit next to her and wait.

Maybe she needs more time?," replied Ant.

It was dark on the meadow ground.

By now the other plants had grown so tall and wide that they blocked out all of the sunshine.

So the little seedling began her journey in search of the sun.

“Let’s go with her!,” said Ant.

Her friends were always by her side and helped the best they could.

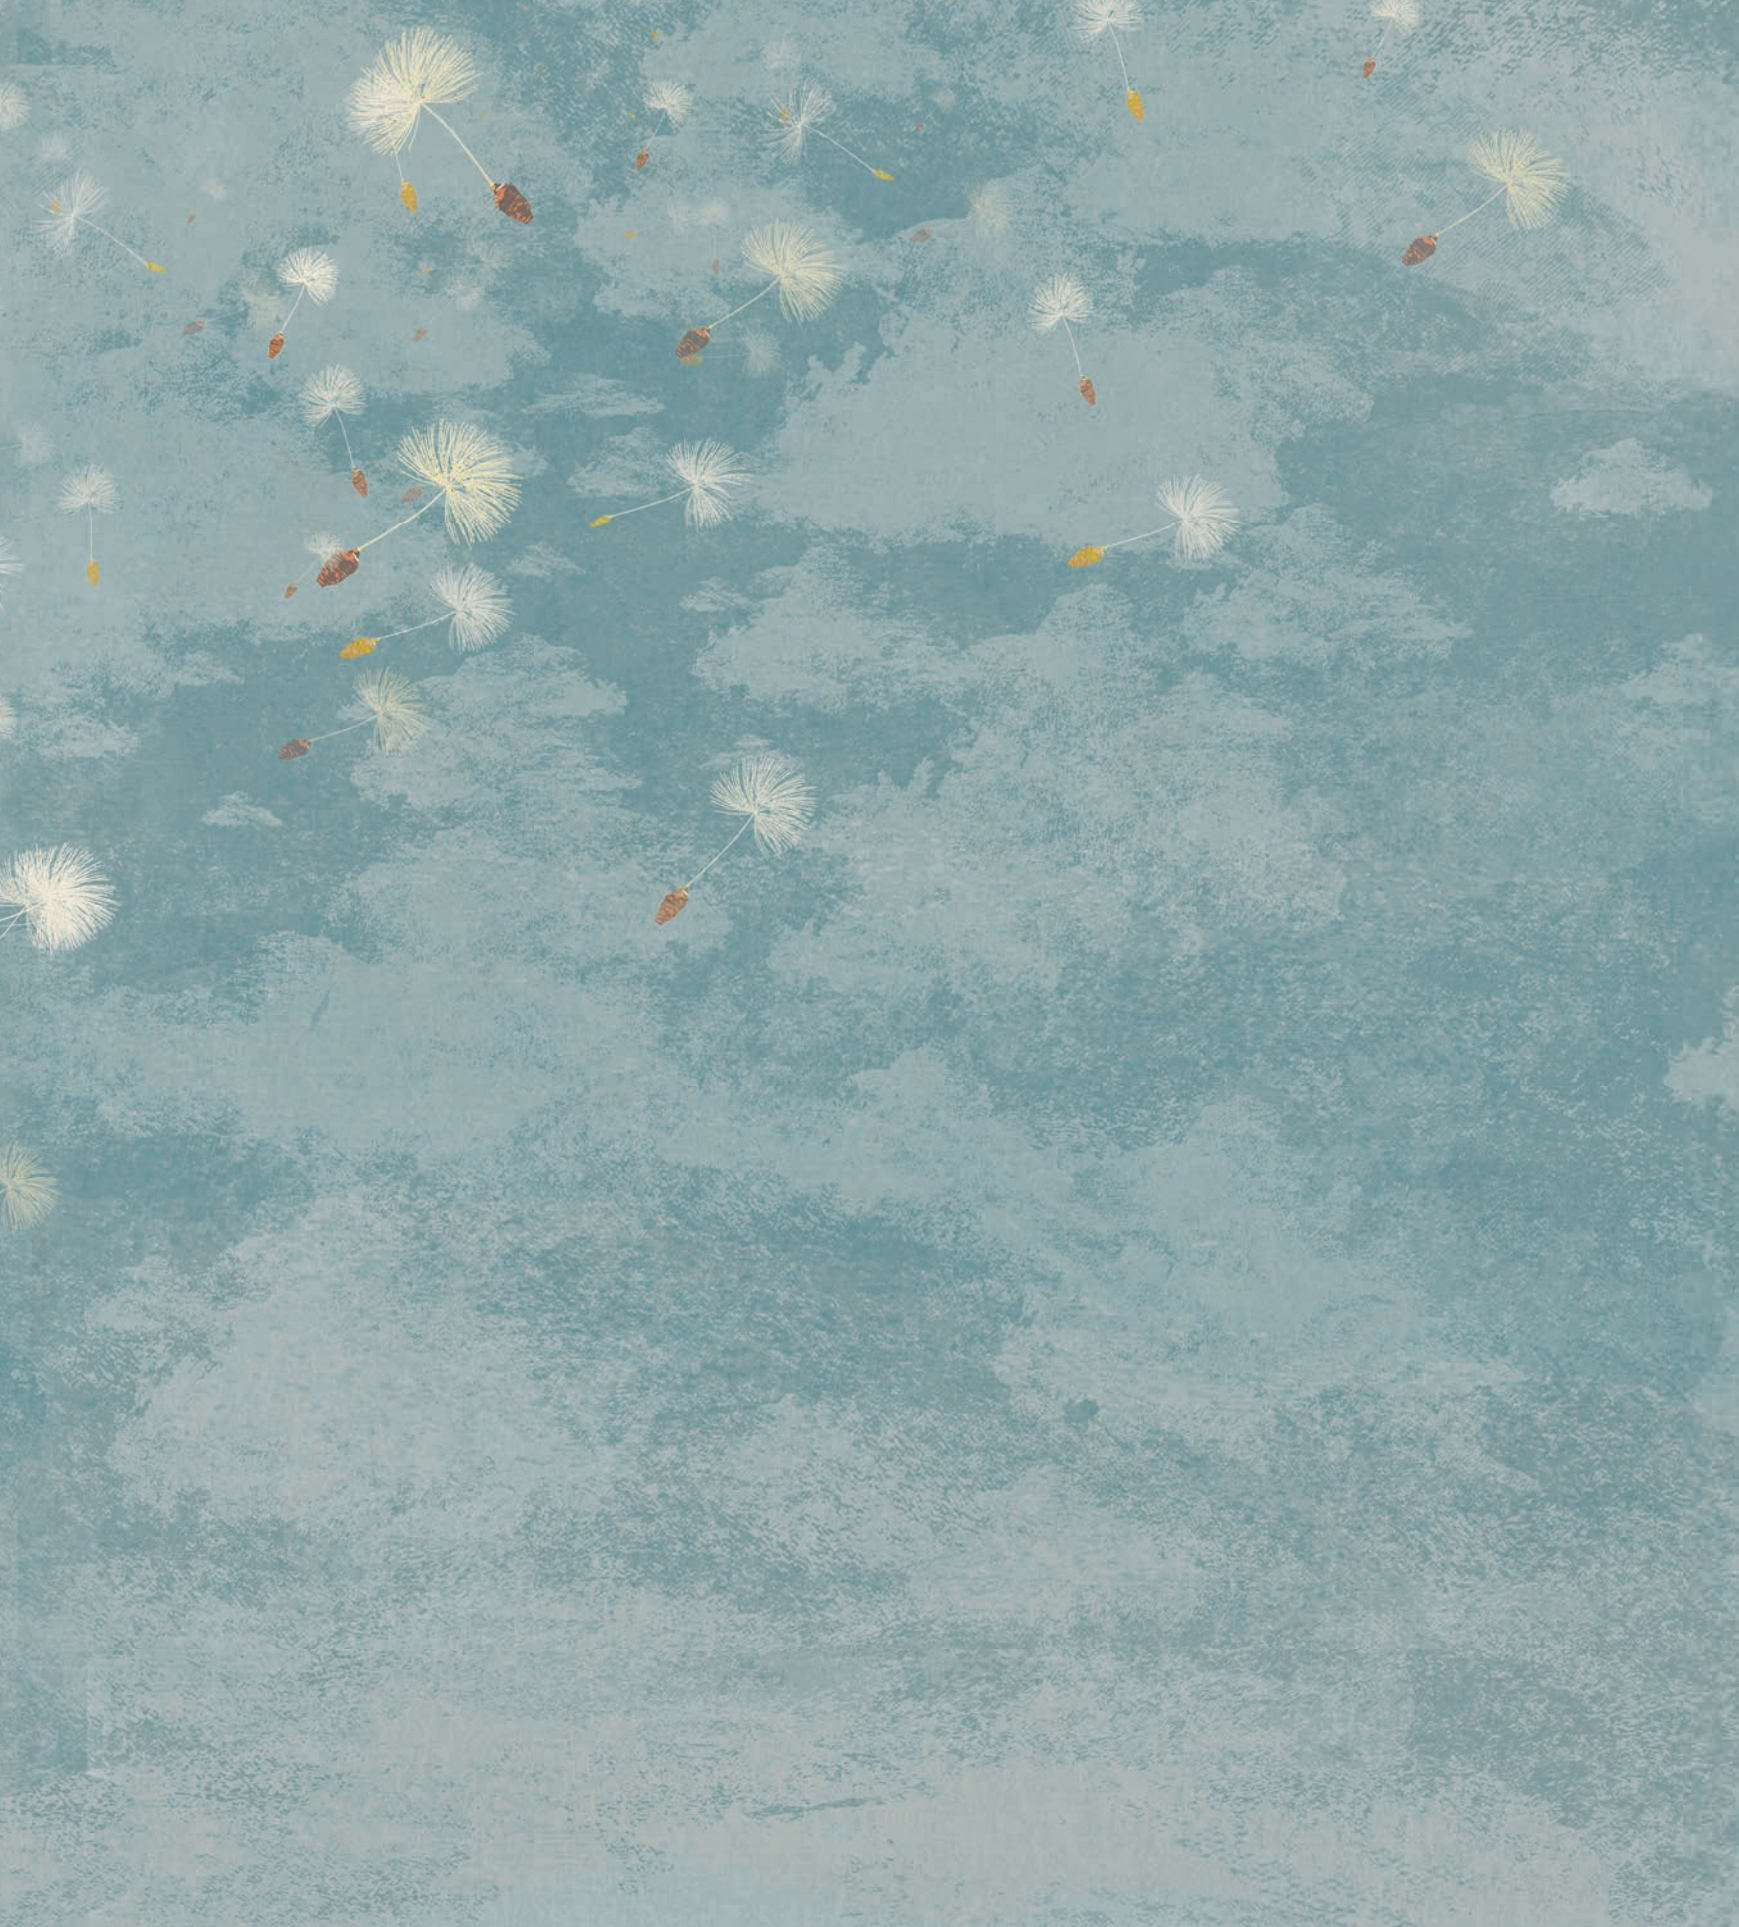

Cricket guarded her roots.

Mouse searched for the easiest paths ahead.

And Butterfly and Ladybird flew high above trying to find the perfect spot for her.

... far and wide.
